In his last moments, my dear friend Jessie raised his gaze with a fierce determination and declared, "I don’t want anyone to grieve for me once I’m gone; I embraced life with every ounce of passion. Yet, at this very moment, the experience feels overwhelmingly burdensome, and my only regret is that I didn’t take cover when the explosion occurred!"
The peculiar nature of this realization struck me profoundly at the time, and even now, in these later years, it feels just as unsettling to consider the idea of compromising the cherished memory of my dear friend Jessie merely for the sake of crafting a narrative that could secure a financial gain to cover my rent.
I acknowledge the complexities surrounding betrayal, the implications of financial gain, and the profound ethics involved in sharing such an intimate and sacred moment.

However, it is imperative for me to express my perspective as a witness to his remarkable courage and unwavering resolve.
As a devoted advocate of truth, I feel compelled to stand resolutely before you, meeting your gaze with sincerity.
In his final moments, he remained steadfastly true to the admirable character that had been so widely recognized.
Confronted with the ultimate crossroads between our earthly existence and the mysteries that await us in the afterlife, I observed as my other dear companion, Death, approached with a quiet dignity to claim his soul. In that poignant instant, we exchanged a knowing nod, a silent acknowledgment of the profound transition that was about to unfold.
As the bombs rained down once more, my mind became a blur, and instinctively, I sought refuge in the muddy confines of the trench's bunkers. In that harrowing moment, I fervently invoked the names of every deity that came to mind, desperately hoping that fate would spare me from following my dear friend Jessie on his solemn voyage to the far reaches of the Nether World.

In that moment of bewilderment and frantic anxiety, I failed to grasp that my fears were merely the product of a tawdry carnival trick, meticulously crafted to maintain control over the masses, like us, through a relentless stream of fear-mongering narratives.

These narratives were fervently disseminated by the agents of our ruling elite, who stood atop their lofty platforms, proclaiming the tenets of the so-called "Great Rules Based Order."

Years later, even those entrenched within the government, a select group of deep state operatives, would privately express their discontent, albeit only after indulging in generous servings of illicit Cuban rum.

These scientific insiders would lament that the notions of "Death, Heaven, and Hell" were mere constructs, designed to subdue the working-class masses, keeping them tethered to their mundane lives while nurturing dreams of a glorious afterlife.
This illusion served to silence dissent, encouraging the laborers to suppress their thoughts and obediently follow the directives of their superiors, all in the hope of a promised reward beyond this earthly existence.
This pact was forged by our ancient forebears, the First CIS Humans, who emerged resilient from the cataclysmic Great Flood.
It was a solemn agreement, etched in the very essence of those early warriors who dared to defy the oppressive regime of God's contract administrators, severing ties with the corrupt union leaders who had long been in collusion with the original overlords of what was once known as Mining Colony #3, now recognized as Earth.

In their courageous stand, they sacrificed their lives, and it is in their honor that we remember the countless unionized individuals who were unaware of the impending efforts to obliterate the Overlords' illicit experiments in GOF DNA Research, all before an investigative team could arrive from the Multiverse's Corporate Congress.
(This narrative has been explored in depth in my previous works—an obligatory mention, as my Economic, Corporate Slave Masters at WWWG Plantation and Print Shop have insisted I include!)
